A Wife-Beater Sent to Jail.—About two weeks ago, a man named George V. Butz, who keeps a drinking-house at the corner of Hunt and Sycamore-streets, was held to bail by Judge Lowe, in the sum of $1,000, for his appearance at the next term of the Court of Common Pleas, to answer a charge of assault and battery upon his wife, whom he struck several times with a hammer, thereby seriously endangering her life. George Scitzer, who, we believe, became his security, went to the Police Court yesterday and asked to be released, whereupon Butz was arrested and lodged in jail. THE LATE CASE OF MAINING AT THE EIGHTH WAND POLLS—LAHAL EVIDENCE.—The case of Joseph Goodall, charged with biting off the lip of Thomas Cunningham during a fight which occurred at the Eighth Ward polls on Monday last, came up for examination in the Police Court yesterday morning. The prosecuting witness produced the lip he had lost in evidence against the defendant, and this labial testimony, although mute, caused Judge Lowe to hold Goodall in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance at the Court of Common Pleas. Elated with his success, Cunningham insisted that the mangled lip should be kept for the benefit of the jury which will try the cannibalic case in the other Court, not doubting that it will be as silently eloquent there as it has already been before Judge Lowe.

Horrible Appair—A Wife Sleeping with a Drap Husbard.—Night before last, Abraham Lee, residing at No. 187 West Courtstreet, retired with his wife at the usual hour, apparently in good health, and soon fell into a sound sleep. Yesterday morning his wife arose and discovered that her husband was dead, and from appearances had been in that condition several hours. Horrified at the thought of having alept while her husband was dying at her side, she became half frantic, and seemed wholly inconsolable. Coroner Carey was sent for, and a jury empanneled, who, after an examination of the body, and hearing the testimony of the friends of the deceased, rendered a verdict of death from rheumatism of the heart. Mr. Lee was about sixty years of age, and besides his wife, leaves a family of four children, all fully grown, to mourn his sudden demise.

About thirty persons, including reporters,
Republicans and Democrats, met, yesterday morning, at Bacon's Building, in obedience to a call for an American Convention, for the purpose of electing delegates from the First and Second Congressional Districts of Ohio, to the National Convention, to be held at Baltimore, on the 9th proximo.

The meeting was called to order by James F. Cunningham, who nominated W. B. Probacco for Chairman, after which the following officers were elected:

J. Hall.

Secretary—James F. Cunningham.
It may be proper to state here, parenthetically, that ten of the persons who were elected as Vice Presidents of the Couvention, were not present, and had not the slightest idea of the honor conferred upon them.

After the object of the meeting had been stated, Mr. Jones moved that a committee of three—which was increased to four, by an amendment of Mr. Tomlinson—be appointed to select delegates to the Baltimore National Convention, which was carried, and the Chair made the following appointments:

First District—J. L. Keck and Joseph F. Torrence.

Second District-James Noble and Henry

Second District—James Noble and Henry Ives.

The Committee retired, and, after a brief absence, returned with the following report, which was accepted and adopted:

Resolved, That we approve of the sentiments embodied in the address of the National Union Convention, and will heartily cooperate in carrying into effect the formation of Union Clubs throughout the State.

Resolved, That we recommend the conservative men of all parties to meet at Columbus on the 18th inst., to elect delegates at large, for the State of Ohio, and to each district to report at that meeting the delegates elected

Mr. Tomlinson moved to amend by striking out the name of Mr. Bates, and it was als out the name of Mr. Bates, and it was also suggested that the resolution would be improved by placing the name of Fillmore at its head and that of Bates at its tail, but before the vote was taken Edgar M. Johnson moved to lay the whole matter upon the

Mr. Torrence here made a very cunning Mr. Torrence here made a very cunning but unsuccessful effort to express his opinion of the resolution in a speech, but was called to order. He said he arose to a point of order, and stated the point, but it was so exceedingly fine that the President falled to see it, and finally baffled, Mr. T. took his seat.

Some of the members of the Convention thought it would discover a lack of respect for Mr. Bates if the resolution were tabled, when some one shouted, "That is the intention," whereupon the vote was taken and the resolution laid upon the table, only two voices voting in the negative.

A collection was then taken up to defray the expenses of the Convention, and Messrs.
Hefferman, Churchill and Cunningham were appointed a committee to attend to the ad-vertising of the State Convention; after which the meeting adjourned.

United States, shall not be sold for less than double the minimum price of lands when sold, and that the provisions of the act shall only be applicable to lands subject to private entry at the date of the passage of the bill; not agreed to.

Mr. Brown offered an amendment, that the laws now in force granting pre-emption to the actual settlers in the public lands, shall continue till otherwise ordered by Congress, and that the same shall be extended to all the Territories.

and that the same shall be extended to all the Territories.

Mr. Green spoke against the bill, and proposed to offer an amendment that the provisions of all existing pre-emption laws be extended from the time of payment for the space of two years and if at, or before, the termination of two years, the pre-emptor shall neglect to pay for any legal subdivision of such quarter-section, the balance not thus paid for shall be subject to private entry according to existing laws.

The Senate went into Executive session on the treaties, and adjourned.

HOUSE-Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported the Postoffice Appropriation Bill.

The House resumed the consideration of the Anti-Polygamy Bill.

Mr. Nelson resumed his remarks in its support. Expressing the hope that the passage would approach as near as possible to unanimity, he saw a manifest distinction between interfering with the rights of property and the right to declare criminal an act which is so declared by the law of God. The existence of the institution of polygamy in Utah is an insult to the wives and daughters of the gentlemen here, and their constituents. It was a reflection on our national character, that it should exist under the protection of American law.

Mr. Hooper said that at the proper time, of imbeen allayed, and he was giad to know that there was better feeling now than formerly, but if this bill be passed, and its provisions carried out, those angry passions will revive and wither at the core; the fires which blazed so fiercely, while the fuel of persecution was heaped upon them, had died out, and he appealed to the representatives, not of one, but of all parties, to say whether they were prepared to rekindle the fiame. As a delegate of all the citizens of Utah, he had to remember that he could not allude to the division of sentiment among them on the subject of polygamy or any other.

Mr. Clark, of Mo., asked to what extent polygamy exists in Utah. What number has more than one wife, and whether the regulation of such marriages is binding on the people?

Mr. Hooper replied that he was not practically a polygamist. From his observation in ten years' residence in Utah, he could say, not over half the population recognize polygamy, and probably not more than one-half of these have more than one wife each. He knew of no church regulation which compelled a woman to marry a man except voluntarily. He was encouraged to knew that there were mo church regulation which competed a woman to marry a man except voluntarily. He was encouraged to knew that there were several gentlemen on this floor, who had been acquainted with him for the last twenty years, and long prior to his identification with the citizens of Utah. They would say he was not capable of deceit or dissimulation.

He declared on his honor that the pessage of this fell will not be unexceptionable to the of this bill will not be unexceptionable to the extreme advocates of polygamy in Utah, and it will unite all people in common cause against the unjust pretensions of the General Government to put down polygamy by force. The House voted and rejected Mr. Branch's substitute—yeas 47; nays 151.

The House next voted on Mr. McClernand's substitute to repeal the law organizing Utah and dividing the Territory between Jefferson and Nevada, for which he proposed a temporary government. Rejected—yeas 35; nays 159. of this bill will not be unexceptionable to th

A Boy Shoots the Oversher of a Plan-tation Dead.—A little son of Mrs. Pierce, of dontgomery, Ala, shot and killed Mr. Eason, overseer of Colonel Thomas J. Judge, who sesided at the plantation of the latter, four miles west of that city. Mrs. Pierce's son and another lad, having lost a boat, found it in the river in the rear of Mr. Judge's plan-tation. Finding it locked, the boys pro-oceded to unasten it the best way they could, when Mr. Eason rode up on horseback and indulged in some abusive language; where-upon Mrs. Pierce's son raised a gan and fired, the bird-shot taking effect in his side, and almost instantly producing death.

The House tabled the preamble to the bill, which was passed with verbal amendments—yeas 149 nays 60.

Mr. Sickles submitted his response to Mr. Williamson's memorial in his contested case. It was read and after some debate referred to the Committee on Elections.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Sherman moved to take up the Tariff the reasons of the call, which grew out mainly

Mr. Sherman moved to take up the Tariff

Mr. Sherman moved to take up the Tarisf and Loan Bill.

Mr. Branch was against any alteration of the tarisf. The present bill yields sufficient revenue to meet the wants of the government.

Mr. Sherman said he would not ask a vote on it for three weeks.

On his motion the various bills on the callendar were laid aside till the Tarisf and Loan Bill was reached.

Mr. Lovejoy said that the House had been engaged in giving the death blow to polygamy. By the Philadelphia Platform the Republican party stand pledged, as far as the Federal Government has the power, to extirpate that other twin relic of barbarism, slavery in the Territories. He wanted to see them both strangled and go down together.

His remarks at one time caused great excitement and bad blood among the Southerners, and the House came near to a violent collision. The latter part of his speechawain good humor

Mr. Loveloy, warming up with his subject, passed from his seat to the area in front of the Clerk's desk, in full view of all the members, and spoke in a loud tone, with emphasis and earnest gesticulation, against the ground on which it was sought to justify slavery because the creatures are poor and the strong have the power to oppress the weak, the rich to oppress the poor, the spirit of slaveholding being the spirit of the devil, &c.

Several gentlemen called him to order.

Mr. Prvor said the gentleman from Illinois had no right to shake his fist at gentlemen on his side. It was bad enough to stand in his own place and talk his treason and insolence.

Mr. Barksdale—"Let him keep on his own side of the House."

The confusion soon became general, and members began to press into the area.

Mr. Cox said the gentleman from Illinois ought to speak from his seat.

Mr. Prvor—"Let him stand there and talk. He shan't come on this side of the hall."

Mr. Barksdale was seen shaking his cane, and in the midst of the confusion was heard to say "rascal," as applied to Mr. Lovejoy.

Mr. Adrain, as if to quiet the tumult; said the gentleman could speak from his seat.

The Chairman, Mr. Washburne, of Maine, in vain rapped to restore order.

Mr. Adrain, in a conciliatory tone, supposed that nobody wanted to intimidate the gentleman.

Mr. Pryor—"No one wants to intimidate

Mr. Lovejoy—"No body can intimidate me."

Many Republicans now crowded around Mr. Lovejoy, who exclaimed to them, "Oh, I'm safe enough."

Mr. Burnett, elevating his voice above the din, said the rules required the gentleman to speak from his seat. He must and shall do it. He shall not shake his fist to gentlemen on this side in a menacing manner.

The Chairman called loudly for the Sergeant-at-arms, as if to attend to Mr. Burnett, who said, "You may call the Sergeant-at-arms, but the members shall not do it."

The glittering mace of the Sergeant-at-arms did not quiet the disorder.

Mr. Kellogg, of III., came to the support of his colleague, saying, "He shall not commit a breach of the rules, but shall have his rights."

A general fight, at one time, seemed immi-

A general fight, at one time, seemed immi-nent, and the wildest excitement every where prevailed.

The Speaker was called in to resume his seat, and finally, comparative quiet was re-stored.

Mr. Sherman said, "We are in good order now." This was succeeded by a burst of language.

Mr. Lovejoy took the stand at the Clerk's desk and resumed his remarks. He spoke about Northern Christian women, who went to the South to prevent the people from returning to barbarism,

Mr. Singleton said that he would not allow such insinuations on Southern women to pass. If the member persisted in that course of remarks, he would hold him personally responsible.

Ar. Lovejoy said, that of the 4,000,000 slaves there was not one legal husband, father, wife or child, and spoke about a Presbyterian Elder down South, having the Gospel whipped into him with the broadside of a handsaw, and of a young girl in this city, being whipped till the blood came out of her nostrils, and then sent to the garret to die. He had sworn to support the Constitution because he loved it, but he did not interpret it in the way Southern men did.

Mr. Bonham—"You violate it."

Mr. Ashmore—"And perjure yourself."

Mr. Singleton—"And are a negro thief into the bargain."

Mr. Barksdale—"I hold no parley with a perjured negro."

Mr. Lovejoy said, when Daniel Webster spoke of the impositions of Austria on Hungary, he remarked, "That the earthquake and tornado have powers, and the thunder has power; but greater than these was the power of public opinion, and before this he proposed to arraign Austria." He (Lovejoy) proposed to hold up to the retribution of public sentiment slaveholding in all its atrocity and hideousness, just as gentlemen had here polygamy. Public sentiment will burn and scour out slavery. The proper way is by the action of the slave States themselves. He had indorsed the Helper Book because he wanted to do it. He did so without asking the gentleman from Missouri, because he wanted to do it. He did so without asking the gentleman from Missouri, (Clark,) or anybody else. "You shed the blood of my brother twenty years ago, and I am here free to speak my mind."

The Republican party would spring up in Kentucky, and gentlemen now here would find themselves displaced by more moderate, and, if it were not offensive, he would say, more sensible men. He wanted to say in Charleston what he could say here.

Mr. Bonham—"You had better try it."
Mr. Lovejoy—"I can go to England, and there discuss the question of church and state, or any other British institution, but if I go into the sixe States and talk against slavery, where is my protection?"

Mr. Bonham—We want you to assert it.

Mr. Lovejoy—When you call us small farmers, and apply other epithets against the working people of the North, we don't harm you. If a mechanic from Pennsylvania were to go South and speak about the superiority of white labor, he would be held morally responsible. You would strip him and scourge him by the hand of a slave, and, perhaps, tar and feather him.

Mr. Barksdale—The meanest negro in the South is your superior.

Mr. Barksdale—The meanest negro in the South is your superior.

Cries of "order" from the Republican side. Mr. Lovejoy, in speaking of John Brown, said he would not curse him; he would pour execrations on old John Brown. He condemned what he (Brown) did; he disapproved of his acts. He believed, however, that his purpose was a good one, and his motives honest and truthful. John Brown stood head and shoulders above any man here, until he was strangled. Any law to enslave man was as an arrangement among pirates man was as an arrangement among pirates to distribute the spoils.

By what right do you of the South get together and enact laws that I or my children should be your slaves? Every slave has a right to run away in spite of your laws, and to fight himself away. Were he (Lovejoy) a slave, and were it necessary to achieve his freedom, he would not hesitate to fill up the chasm and bridge it with the slain. slain. He loved the South. [A voice: We don't Bemseratic National Committee.

Washington, April 5.—Previous to action on the resolution, Mr. Vallandigham stated the reasons of the call, which grew out mainly of the complaints of impositions in Charleston, concerning accommodations of visitors. He had received numerons letters on this subject. Gentlemen of Baltimore, Philadelphia, Richmond, St. Louis and Louisville, had presented inducements for changing the place of meeting to these cities. It might be stated that gentlemen from Charleston would, as far as they could, extend their hospitalities to delegates.

Mr. Ashmore stated to the Committee that

Mr. Ashmore stated to the Committee that he had appeared at the summons of the Secretary, but did not regard himself a member. He had met the Executive Committee at its first meeting as the substitute of Hon. B. H. Wilson, a member of said Committee from South Carolina, as expressed in his letter, for the only object to appoint the time when the Committee will meet in Charleston.

He therefore regarded himself as limited to a single act of fixing time, which had been done, and not regarding himself as anthorized to act, should decline voting or participating further than to say, as a matter of information, that he had received many letters from distinguished gentlemen from Charleston, of the Convention party, who assured him that the hospitalities of that party would be extended to the fullest extent of their ability to accommodate visitors and delegates. He was frank to say that in his opinion nothing need be expected from the Anti-Convention party. As to the change, he hoped no effort would be made to effect one. He did not believe the committee had the provent make any, and if it were act would be every and it if it were act would be provent on the convention party, and if it were act would be provent on the convention party as of the order of the party was a sould if it were act would be provent on the convention party and it is were act it would be provent on the convention and and the provent on the convention party and it is were act it would be provent on the convention party and it is were act it would be provented and the convention party and it is were act it would be actived and the provented active and the convention party and it is were act it would be actived and the provented active and the convention party and it is were actived and the provented active and the party and the party and the provented active and the provented active and the provented active and t

He did not believe the committee had the power to make any, and if it were so it would have a very injurious effect upon the friends of the Cenvention in South Carolina, who, he thought, were unanimous in opposing the change, if not in other States.

He had been informed by letters that many of the hotels would charge only three dollars per diem, but yesterday he had received private letters saying that certain houses had been fitted up for five and six dollars per day, including lodging and bedding. The landlords of the city claimed the high prices of provisions as an excuse for the charges. He should not discuss this question, however, and as he should decline voting upon any of the propositions before the committee, would the propositions before the com withdraw.
